

Professor Tim Nichol

Pro Vice Chancellor, Liverpool John
Moores University, UK

Research interests - corporate governance, family companies and decision making.

Degree in Jurisprudence from Oxford University. Professional accounting career with Coopers and Lybrand. A former chartered accountant (ICAEW) and a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Taxation. Fellow of the Chartered Management Institute.

Joined the Newcastle Business School in 1992 and held positions as an Associate Dean Undergraduate and Associate Dean Teaching and Learning in the Business School and in the Faculty of Business and Law. In 1997 was seconded to the Know How Fund and worked as a Resident Advisor at the Ukrainian central bank as part of a multi-agency team advising on the implementation of banking reform measures. In 2014 was appointed as Director, Northumbria London Campus and launched the new campus.

Joined Liverpool John Moores University in August 2015 as Dean, Liverpool Business School.

External appointments include editorial and review responsibilities, a Panel member for EFMD's EPAS accreditation, non-executive director and Trustee positions.